H.A.S.

Heartland Apicultural Society (H.A.S.) is serving beekeepers in the “heartland” for the fifth year offering the latest information in research, disease and pest control, field experience, marketing/business of beekeeping, and other pertinent topics. Speakers/presenters will be outstanding experts in the field of beekeeping will be offered to address the questions and concerns of beekeepers of all levels of experience. With a wide variety of topics available to choose from, beekeepers can attend classes of their choice on Thursday and Friday all day and Saturday morning .

Sessions:

Food:

The Tecumseh Dining Center features several food areas with a variety of food choices at very reasonable prices. “All you can eat” is the rule here. A picnic dinner is planned for the Friday evening meal outside, if weather permits, with entertainment to follow.

With a variety of food available, those with special needs should be able to find what they need. The cost will be:

breakfast - $4.00

lunch - $5.00

dinner - $6.00

or $15.00 for all three meals

Indicate meals needed on the registration form.

Accommodations

All educational sessions will be held in modern, fully equipped, air conditioned classrooms. Comfortable, air conditioned, double occupancy dormitory rooms with two rooms sharing one bathroom are available on campus. Several motels are close by for those who wish to stay off-campus. Check the website, www.heartlandbees.com, for more information.

The cost for university dormitory rooms are $30 per person per night for double occupancy or $40 per person for single occupancy.

Parking is available close by with handicap parking available, also. All accommodations are within a short walking distance to the meeting area, cafeteria and bee yard.

When filling in the registration, please indicate any special needs that you have.

Further information:

Events for spouses, etc. are being planned. Information about events and area points of interest will be available on the website. Check the website regularly for updates concerning program details, campus map, and other pertinent information: www.heartlandbees.com
